ACADEMIC PROFILE

I graduated with a Master of Business Administration from Western Sydney University, seeking a lecturer position. Combines peer-reviewed research on consumer behaviour and corporate social responsibility with hands-on marketing experience in higher-education settings, and holds a formal pedagogical qualification in tertiary-level teaching. Experienced in designing instructional materials and delivering tutoring to university learners, with particular interest in teaching marketing principles, digital marketing, and consumer behaviour. I am an enthusiastic learner and hard worker and very much willing to take on new challenges in the professional education environment that can enhance my skills, abilities and education towards achieving organisational goals successfully. My main objective is to work in an educational organisation as a lecturer where I can contribute to academic operations and deliver exceptional student experiences and have an opportunity to develop broad exposure and develop expertise as a collaborator to do research in marketing.
